

BLUFF CALLED HARD.

A. M. Brown Proved Knight Errant Just at Right Time.

TWO AGENTS PUT TO FLIGHT

At Home of Mrs. E. J. Stewart of Kirtown, Near Scottsdale—Alleged That They Wanted Pay for Sewing Machine That Was Not Owing.

Scottsdale, March 25.—A. M. Brown proved a knight errant when two sewing machine agents are alleged to have made a wily attempt to bluff Mrs. E. J. Stewart, an aged woman of Kirtown, into paying for a sewing machine that the agents had placed in a rented house of Mrs. Stewart and which she knew nothing of on Saturday.

The two met Mr. Brown in Scottsdale and told him to go with them, it is said, and put up a strong bluff. The point of attack was an aged woman, quite deaf, and when Mr. Brown arrived shortly after the two agents, she was frightened and trembling. Mrs. Stewart denied that the agents had ever notified her that they were going to put the machine in her house or that she was given any notice whatever of such procedure.

The men started to impress upon the woman's mind that she had been notified and that they could prove it. Mrs. Stewart became much frightened then, and was shaking and nearly weeping, and wanted the men to get out.

Then the officer took a hand. Afterwards he described the two as "the big one and the little one." Anyhow he grabbed the big one by the scruff of the collar, necktie and other stuff around his neck and with the other hand the region about the seat of the pants and then propelled the big one toward the door, much as he would running a piece of iron through the rolls. There were several steps down from the porch and to miss these the big one had to jump, describing a parabola out into the yard.

"I'll sue you. I'll come back," the man is alleged to have shouted back, as he landed.

"Come back now," cried Adam, as he whirled around to get the little one. That personage dodged around a rocking chair that he had been resting his hands and face at and ran for the door. But the pursuer was close upon him. On the porch the pursuer made desperate leap after his victim, hooked one arm about a porch post and kicked out fiercely. The little one cleared every step, making an impressive arch in the atmosphere.

The second one made some threat about suit. Later in the evening the Everson man met the two agents. "I see you haven't sued me yet," he called amiably.

"Time enough yet," growled the larger of the two.

"I can show you a good squire," snarled Mr. Brown and continued his way to Everson. Cheerful Adam.

What Does This Mean?

What does this "A" mean? Why does it appear in our advertisements? Is it simply an ornament? Merely an eye-catcher? These questions may have occurred to you. Whether they have or not, let us explain. This "A" is a symbol of quality. It is a guaranty of merit. It stands for "Aaron" of course. And "Aaron" will never stand for anything but the best.

This sounds like the arrogant boastings of an egoist. But hark ye, good people. We Aarons are an ambitious lot. Some say we want to be the Marshall Field of Pennsylvania. And perhaps 'tis true. And what if it is? Is it not a worthy ambition? Marshall Field founded his enormous business on honesty. Quality was his watchword. His money was not the tainted sort. He gave square values and his word was as good as gold.

We want to be known by our actions. Therefore our actions must be trustworthy. We want to impress our "A" upon your minds. We want you to say to yourself "That means a promise." A promise of the best in everything—the mediocre in nothing. We claim we have shown our faith in Connellsville. We have invested our all in its future. We want a return. We want Connellsville to show its faith in us. We will quote our prices in plain figures. We will expect to make a profit on everything we sell. A legitimate profit—a just one. We will right every wrong—if wrongs be done. This is a part of what our "A" means. It is our iron-clad, oak-rooted guaranty. We have spoken.

HARD COAL TO SOAR.

Operators Say Miners' Demands Means an Increase of $1.20 Per Ton.

WHERE CONSUMER COMES IN

Nothing Said About Slight Reduction in Their Profits—Demonstration of Complex Problem in Arithmetic by Members of Anthracite Coal Trust.

New York, March 26.—The anthracite coal operators have given out a "statement" in which they say: "Much inquiry has been made as to the precise calculation by which the anthracite coal operators establish the fact that in order to grant the demands made by the coal miners it will be necessary to raise the price charged the consumer by $1.20 a ton. The demands of the miners provide for a three-fold increase of wages.

"First—An increase of 10 per cent to all miners engaged in cutting coal, or other men engaged on contract work.

"Secondly—The establishment of a minimum day wage for each class of labor. This minimum day wage, in many instances, is 100 per cent greater than the rates now being paid.

"Third—The establishment of an 8-hour day, instead of a 9-hour day, without any reduction in a day's pay.

"By careful calculation from the payrolls of the operating companies, the effect of these three increases is to add an average of $1.34 per cent to the actual labor cost per ton of coal. This is equal, at the present labor cost of $1.55 to an increase of 23.6 cents per ton on all sizes of coal which are mined.

"Domestic Consumer Pays. "It must be understood, however, that the so-called 'steam products' of anthracite—which are a by-product of the industry—come into direct competition with bituminous coal and must therefore be sold for a price regulated by soft coal. The result is that all of the added cost of labor of the entire industry must be borne by the 'domestic' sizes, which comprise 65 per cent of the entire output.

"This is exactly the same principle that holds good in other manufacturing industries, as, for instance, in the grain or milling result. Wheat at present costs about 88¢ per bushel. After this wheat is milled, 31 per cent of the product sells for a price 41 per cent less than the actual cost of the wheat before milling, and the cost of flour or meal in product, has to be increased accordingly to make up for this loss. It is the same way with anthracite coal.

"Increases the Labor Cost. "This plea of the operators on the domestic sizes—a fact against which there can be no appeal—brings it about that the labor cost of each ton of coal sold to the domestic consumer would be raised, under the new demands, by 11.8 cents a ton.

"The general public asks: Why would not the addition of 51.8 cents to the market price regain the entire extra outlay of the operator? This query ignores one of the important awards of the Roosevelt arbitration board, viz: 'The sliding scale.' According to the sliding scale, the present flat rate of wages must be paid for every ton of coal sold to the consumer for $4.50. Every five cents increase on this market price of coal, under the sliding scale, adds 1 per cent to the wages of every class of labor. The significance of this is that out of every five cents of additional price the miners employed by the Lehigh Valley Coal company for instance, must receive 2.9 cents and the operator 2.1 cents.

"Blame Placed on Sliding Scale. "It is thus apparent that if the market price of coal should be increased 50 cents, the operator would receive only 21 cents to recoup him for the 51.8 cents added labor cost per ton before the increases began.

"It becomes necessary, therefore, to push up the price of coal until the net share of the operator is sufficient to pay the 51.8 cents. It will be understood that the miners' wages increase with every advance in the market price. But the operator must secure a sufficient net increase to equalize the net increase paid to the miner. This equalization is reached, according to the figures of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, at about $1.20. Some of the companies estimate the raise at a little less, some at a little more. But the principle is always the same.

Malahan, City, Pa., March 26.—Mino foremen in the Schuylkill region have received orders to hurry up the men's demands in all inside work so as to have them completed by next Saturday. This is taken as an indication that the anthracite companies expect a general cessation of operations after March 31.

STRUCK DEAD IN PULPIT

Lightning Kills Latter Day Saints Preacher During Sermon. Carson, Ia., March 26.—While preaching to his congregation the Rev. J. B. Lentz, pastor of the Latter Day Saints church, was struck by lightning, which caused his death within an hour. The bolt descended during a hard thunder storm and was communicated to the preacher by a chandelier hanging directly above his head. The shock threw him to the floor in an unconscious state, while many persons in the audience were stunned. In the nearly everyone had fled from the building Lentz was carried out but failed to regain consciousness. The church took fire but the flames were soon extinguished.

GREENE COUNTY RAILROADS.

Pennsylvania May Lay First Standard Gauge Rails in Course of Year.

The oft-repeated statement that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will be the first to construct a standard gauge road to Waynesburg is called to mind by recent remarks of men who have their cars to the ground, says the Washington Reporter. The route, it is stated by persons who are well on the inside in railroad matters, will be by way of Laboratory; thence down to Lowland Farm, and by a tunnel through the hill to the headwaters of Baker's run, and down said stream to Baker's station, on the present narrow gauge road. From the latter point the route will follow the present road to Dunn's station, where a tunnel will be pushed through the Elyman Loughman farm and down Finner creek to near Swartz, on the W. & W. road, following the latter route etc. to the Greene county capital. By the first change the following stations will be eliminated: Braddock, Judge Chambers, Vankirks, Chambers' Dam and McCracken, as the new route will be some distance to the east. By the change from Dunn's to Swartz, West Union and Deer Lick, the latter, perhaps the best station on the present road, will be left out.

The company has evidently decided on keeping the road as near the present line as practicable. It is evident that they have determined on making Main street the northern terminus, otherwise the large station would not have been commenced at the foot of Main street, where it is to be erected as soon as the weather will permit.

A resident of Washington who has insisted in surveying for prospective railroad lines between Washington and Waynesburg and others up Ten Mile creek from the Monongahela river, said recently that the Pennsylvania company is on the alert, watching every movement of other companies, which have proposed the building of a railroad through Greene county.

Pennsylvania people, he says will reach Waynesburg with a standard gauge before J. V. Thompson does. He stated that the Pennsylvania people may yet enter into an agreement with the new coal king to build the Greene county line or to purchase his large coal holdings in Greene county and West Virginia, although they have not yet taken the matter into serious consideration. At all events, he said, the Pennsylvania people have the key to the situation, and will make the best of it. "I believe," he said, "that the Pennsylvania railroad will be extended up Ten Mile creek from Millboro to Railroad, where will be located a railroad center of the Pennsylvania system; and also I am led to infer that this same road up Ten Mile will be built on up the creek to the junction of Short creek and Ten Mile, thence up Short creek through Sparta, Old Concord, Simpson's Store, Acleaves, etc., to Wheeling, Pa., and then, something more he does not deem proper to relate, to relieve the increasing freight congestion of the company's lines in Pittsburgh, and by this means this may be done.

"Although many thousands of dollars have been expended in surveying prospective railroad routes from east to west through Greene county," he continued, "it does not necessarily follow that a railroad will be built this year or any other year within a definite, especially when taken into consideration that the combined forces of the Pennsylvania railroad system and H. C. Frick will place many obstacles in the way. J. V. Thompson will build the road if it is practicable and advantageous for him to do so, and if it can be made to his interest to abandon the project the road will not be built.

"The powers may desire to develop Greene county coal some time, but that time may be a long distance ahead. The average Greene county citizen may see his fondest ambitions realized within a year or two, or it may be several years before the desired conditions are realized."

POKER RUINS FARMER

Wife Sues Prominent Citizens to Recover $5,000 Lost to Them.

Canal Dover, O., March 26.—Mary Zoller, wife of Henry Zoller, has started action in the common pleas court against 27 men, well-known citizens of Canal Dover, New Philadelphia, Urbansville and Denison, to recover $5,000 which she claims her husband lost to the defendants in poker games played in the past year. Zoller is about 60 years old, and until a year ago was one of the most frugal farmers in the county. Since he started on his gambling career he has gone heavily in debt and a short time ago made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors. Among the defendants are George Hanson, Jesse Hardesty and Fred Goetz of Canal Dover, and Fred Vinton and Fred Alexander, very prominent in social and business circles.

In her petition Mrs. Zoller claims her husband lost heavily in poker games in a room kept by Krebs & Greenwalt, Canal Dover; Christopher Grunier, New Philadelphia, and Scott & Pennick, Denison. Evidently to making the assignment Zoller placed a mortgage on his farm and sold nearly all his livestock. The affair is creating considerable excitement because of the prominence of many of the parties and the fact that Zoller has always been an exemplary citizen.

Jealous Saloonkeeper Shoots to Kill. Nelsonville, O., March 26.—A sudden and probable murder was enacted at Nelsonville, a mining village in this county, in which Fred Carry, after probably fatally shooting his wife, blew out his brains. The crime is attributed to jealousy. Carry kept a saloon.
